HAPPY TIME

In the Summer of 1954, Oaknox suffered its first massive murder. It is still the largest case in Oaknox history and one of the stories that are never forgotten. The man who did this has not been fully identified, but its safe to assume he had a mental illness, or more. He was never found, leaving the building that it happened in, Happytime Burger store, abandoned for any evidence that could still be there. It has been 50 years since the attack and no true answer seems to be coming in the near future.

1:37 PM.

The man pulled into Happytime's parking lot. The sun hitting down hard on all of the cars, heating them up from the outside in. He slowly walked inside wearing a coat hiding his revolver he got while fighting in WWII. He chose Happytime to be the place to commit the murders because everyone was there during lunch. He walked in and looked around. There seemed to be 30 people in here, and 5 of them were staff.

HAPPY TIME

The man walked up to the counter where a man was waiting to take his order. Instead of ordering, the man shot the worker in the chest killing him. He then shot into the back, hitting and killing 3 more workers. The last one managed to get out and away before the man could shoot again. Customers were terrified, trying to get out, but the door was locked somehow. The man kept shooting, killing more people. Three people managed to get out through broken glass, two got away while the third got shot dead in the front of the store. Sirens could be heard in the distance, it wouldn't be long until they got there. The man ran to his car, started the engine, and drove off outside of the town. The few police officers showed up, along with some ambulances. They figured out that the man left town and they could compile a sketch of the survivors. But because the man left Oaknox, he could be anywhere. He could be alive or dead. He could have been living fresh during the 50 years of a cold case. All that anyone knew for sure is that this event would go down in Oaknox history. Forever.

After this attack on our peaceful town, we have decided to like this as soon as we get the things. Once the Winston Project is in full effect, this town will be the safest in the state. 20 years from now, the crime rate in Oaknox will be cut to almost none. This is our counter measure against these bandits.
